Eugene W. Coon—Funeral of James Kennedy—

William Bennett Held in $1,000 Bonds for Attempt to Kill—Liquor Raid—High School Baseball

Champions Get Rousing Welcome Home.

An interesting side play at the championship baseball game in Yale field, New Haven, between the Westerly and New Haven high school teams, were the presentations to Catcher Frank Foley and Pitcher "Steve" Penber. The gifts were $50 in gold to each of these players, whose faithful efforts aided materially in placing the Westerly high school team as leaders of the baseball field.

Next at gifts were the contributions of ten men of prominence in Westerly, including five physicians, each giving $10 as a token of appreciation of the great battery work of the team, the pennant winners of 1909, and winners of the Eastern division of the Interstate scholastic baseball league in 1910 with a clean record, winning every game in the series and establishing a record in the league.

The presentation was made by Principal John Swain in the presence of the Westerly contingent and gracefully accepted in brief speeches of appreciation by Foley and Penber.

Walter H. Summerby, who was superintendent of the White Rock mills for five years prior to 1898, and who in that year removed to Pontiac, died Thursday at his home in Lawrence, Mass., aged 51. He was agent of the Atlantic cotton mills at Lawrence and one of the best-known mill men in New England. Mr. Summerby was sick only a short time. He is survived by his widow and one son.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of James Kennedy, which was solemnized with a mass of requiem in St. Michael's church, Pawcatuck, Friday, Rev. William Krause, officiating. Burial was in the new St. Michael's cemetery. The bearers were John McKim, John Cramer, James Fitzgerald, Louis Cella and Thomas Shugrue.

At the regular session of the Third district court, Friday, Judge Oliver H. Williams presiding, Arthur Carlson pleaded not guilty to keeping a liquor nuisance. He was required to furnish a bond for his appearance for trial, next Friday, in the sum of $1,000, which he could not do and was committed to the Kingston jail.

William Bennett was arraigned on the charge of assault with intent to kill Alinger E. Burdick, by threatening the latter with a rifle at the home of the defendant at Cross Mills. Burdick testified that on the 8th of June, late at night, he and Bennett had quarrel and that Bennett took a gun from behind the door, pointed it at his brains out. A brother of the plaintiff, age 10, gave testimony in corroboration.

Bennett testified that he lived with Burdick's mother, and that on the night of the trouble he and Burdick had been drinking together and that when they returned home Mrs. Burdick upbraided them for not coming direct from their work. Burdick left the house in an angry manner and went to his room. Bennett, who was dressed in a suit, went to his room and was found by the accused probably guilty and held him for trial in the superior court in bonds of $1,000. Bennett could not be furnished, Bennett was committed to the Kingston jail.

The case of Allen J. Crandall against John J. Lawler, which has long been on the docket, was called. The death of the plaintiff was reported by the court, and Curtis F. Randolph entered his appearance as executor of the will of the plaintiff. The suit is to recover a promissory note. As the defendant had never entered any appearance, default was noted. The promissory note was submitted and the claim proven. Judgment was entered for the plaintiff to recover $100, 61 debt and costs of $5.05.

A third liquor raid was made upon the premises of John Doherty on the Potter Hill road Thursday night, by Chief Dransfield and assistants. The premises were searched and two bottles of whiskey were seized. As there was doubt as to the proprietorship at the place, the warrant charged both John Doherty and William Stinson with keeping the place contrary to law.

The class of 1909, Westerly high school, will hold its reunion at the New Watch Hill house, this (Saturday) evening.

That severe wind, hail, rain, thunder and lightning storm that visited Westerly Thursday evening, was centered in this section. The lightning killed four hogs belonging to Natt Hazard in the Argilla district, and removed a large part of the house and barn. The tall chimney of the Arnold mill was cracked several feet, a tree was struck in Granite street and the lightning also did slight damage to the Tuckerman shop in Mechanic street, and the residence of John J. Carney in Spring street. Several trees were struck in several sections of the town and the wind did damage at Pleasant View and Watch Hill. By the burning out fuses at the Western light and power station the town was without electric light for about twenty minutes. The storm extended eastward as far as Midway, but there was no trace of rain in Poquonnoc village, Groton, New London and beyond.

Sheriff John R. Wilcox announced the appointment Friday of Frederick T. Mitchell, as a deputy sheriff for Washington county to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Eugene W. Coon. Mr. Mitchell has been a member of the Westerly police force for the past year and has proven an efficient officer. He has been specially appointed to attend to the Westerly business.

At the annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church, these officers were elected: Raymond Taylor, president; Raymond Crandall, vice president; Edward Chase, recording secretary; Frank Collins, treasurer; Lookout, prayer meeting social, temperance, missionary, music, visiting, flower, finance and executive committees were appointed.

Without doubt the biggest and most enthusiastic event ever in Westerly was that of Friday night, when the champion Westerly high school team arrived home from New Haven, winning for a second successive time the championship of the Connecticut interscholastic high school baseball league. At the railway station upon the arrival of the Colonial express was assembled the largest crowd of people ever seen in that section, while both sides of Canal and High streets were lined with people and Dixon square was almost impassable. Headed by the Westerly band, the baseball team on a gaily decorated barge, with banner bearers in front, behind and on the sides, the high school students and the street from curb to curb with marchers, the triumphant procession came from the station to Dixon square where a halt was made and the champions given continuous cheers, the shouters taking a rest when the band interspersed with patriotic selections. Then the march was resumed through the principal streets which were brilliantly illuminated with red and green fire.

Later the student body took the lead, the band and champions bringing up the rear and the great men of the future went through the antics of the snake dance accompanying themselves with up to date songs and improvised parodies. The jubilation and jubilation were kept up for nearly two hours and everybody in Westerly was happy. A more enthusiastic reception could not possibly be given to president, king, or potentate. The players were dined at the Westerly club, where speeches of congratulation were made.

The game at New Haven, but for a measly scratch hit, would have been a no-hit no-run game for "Steve" Penber, who with Frank Foley were honored in Friday night's demonstration.

At New Haven Empire Roth was called upon to decide a protest against Frank Foley, based upon a communication from Manager Fairbrother of the Stonington team of the Rhode Island-Connecticut league. Mr. Fairbrother stated that Foley for the past two seasons had played with the Stoningtons on a percentage basis and a specified sum of money. That Stonington had made him an offer of $8 a game for the present season, but that Foley offered him more money and that he was playing with the Westerly team for $7 a game.

Principal Swain produced a signed statement from Manager Grogan, who managed the Stonington team last season and the season before, stating that Frank Foley had never been under contract with Stonington, received no percentage, nor no pay for the games played, above his actual expenses. Unperturbed Roth decided that Manager Grogan knew more than anyone else, knew of the conditions, and inasmuch as he stated that Foley was not a paid player, and that therefore Foley could not be classed as a professional, the protest was therefore denied.

The only motive that the players believe the complainant has, lies in the fact that he is dissatisfied that Foley prefers to play with his home team rather than with Stonington the present season. Manager Mitchell of the Westerly team declared Friday night that Foley had not received a cent from the Westerly team and that no contract had been made with him.

Local Laconics.

Rev. James McClure of Chicago was the guest of his brother-in-law, Walter Dixon.

"Aunt Betty" Champlin received many callers at her home in Maple avenue Thursday.

Rev. E. J. Klose, formerly of North Stonington, now located in Bucksport, Mass., was in Westerly Friday.

Mrs. John Champlin and two children of Westerly will sail from New York today (Saturday) on a European trip.

Games in the Rhode Island-Connecticut baseball league today. Mystic at Westerly, White Rock at Carolina, Wakefield at Stonington.

Supt. Thomas McKenzie of the Westerly water works, attended the annual outing of the New England waterworks association in Providence. The tracks in Bay street, Watch Hill, have been relaid to the regular street grade, and now the work will probably go forward without interruption.

Sort of a tag night in Westerly Friday night, and tags were prominently displayed with those printed words: "W. H. S. celebration. I have contributed."

A number of the baseball enthusiasts of Westerly accompanied the Westerly high school baseball team to New Haven Friday, many of them making the trip in automobiles.

William Steele and daughter Dais are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Weeden. Mr. Steele, junior and messenger of the Parker branch of the Industrial trust company.

More than ordinary local interest is taken in the game between Mystic and Westerly to be played in Vose park this (Saturday) afternoon, as Clyde Burrows is billed to pose on the mound for Mystic.

It was given out in Westerly Friday morning, "Lose or win at New Haven, we'll celebrate the Westerly high school team's victory in the Eastern division championship hands down, and that's cause sufficient for a joyous celebration."

Michael Connell, a former Westerly quarryman, and resident of Garden street, Pawcatuck, died Thursday in New York, and the body will be buried

The Trappist Monastery.

The Trappist monastery at Marianhill, South Africa, is a German center. The community consists of the fathers and brothers. The fathers wear white serge habits tied with ropes and are consumed. Their vows are for life, and one of them is that of everlasting silence. It can only be broken by special dispensation from Rome. The vows of the brothers are for life, but their rules are less strict than those of the fathers, and they are not pledged to eternal silence. Their habits are, of course, brown serge with rope sandals. They do all the work of the monastery in and out of doors and ply the trades practiced in the various shops on the settlement—book-binding, printing, engineering, saddlery, tannery, mill work, bakery, and so on. The monastery is entirely self-contained, and manufactures everything it consumes. The wool from the sheep's backs is transferred to those of the monks—milled, carded and woven within the monastery gates. Outside orders from Durban and elsewhere, are also filled in the various departments, and the monasteries so earned

How some people love money; and how they like to abuse other people for loving it!—Acheson Globe.

The monastery is virtually a mission to the Roman Catholic faith of young Kaffir boys and girls. In this work the monks are aided by a few German nuns, the Sisters of the Bleeding Heart, who are located in a convent on the settlement, with a school attached, but are not recognized at Rome as an integral branch of the monastery. Their co-operation, however, is evidently regarded with favor at headquarters, and considering the class of work undertaken by the mission their services could hardly be dispensed with. They teach all kinds of needlework, lace making, spinning, weaving, etc., as well as household work, to the Kaffir girls in the schools, which are entirely separate and apart from those of the boys. The children educated by the mission are mostly picked up in the fields or on the roads, having been abandoned by their mothers.—Wide World Magazine.
